Eyeball scores fun for 3905ers; home or away

Well another Eyeball has come and gone. For those of us that couldn't make it this year, there always is next year. R.B. did an absolutely outstanding job. His enthusiasm, effort, energy, and excellent performance as this year's Eyeball host will be remembered in the future as an example of how the job should be done.

But those of us stuck at home did get a chance to work some major states mobile as 3905ers traveled to Tennessee.

"On my way to the Eyeball, I was mobile in 18 states and mailed out 328 QSLs. I could not log all the time and may have missed a few contacts." Thank you Harry (W7KKJ).

Let's also remember that sterling performance by our reliable Arizona Combo of Karen (KB7EYA) and Jim (KF7CT) who hit nearly as many states with the Combo bonus. I bet they are still sending cards out.

Of course Ralph (N8IFS) decided to specialize in any city that had a star on it (capitals) all the way from Michigan through the Carolinas.

And Wendell (KE6BV) really went for a king-size portion of mobiling with his trek in from California. That whip is not quite the same as max power to a beam, eh? We all were routing for him night after night.

I wasn't on every night so I may have missed a few other stellar performances, but it's just a great part of the 3905CC to hear our members mobiling in from around the country ... and providing the opportunity to work some of the rarer states.

Rain, thunder and wind make a fine Eyeball test

by R.B. (K4UQP)

It was a dark and stormy night ... literally! The 30 X 40 ft. tarpaulin — so painstakingly erected with the help of Paul (WI4Y), Harry (W7KKJ), Bill (W4XK), Bill (WB4NWR) and myself just a few days earlier —was unjustly attacked by a high-wind thunder storm. But let's back up to the beginning ...

Preparations and plans for the 1991 3905CC Eyeball were well under way by the first of the year. My cohort in this endeavor, Judy (WA4JNN), and I recruited as many friends and neighbors as possible to help fill the larder for a big batch of Raccoon Mountain Coon Stew to be canned at the Marion County Cannery.

This turned out to be an on-going project throughout Spring and Summer. We thought that since the Potted Possum was so well liked last year, we would try our hand at Coon Stew. Judy found a recipe in the Stoger Wildlife Cook book. Honest, no road-kill!

Raccoon Mountain Campgrounds OK'd our use of the open area and the pavilion for setting up stations and erecting antennas. They were most helpful with the arrangements.

The Chattanooga Visitor's and Convention Bureau provided brochures and a variety of other items. (They like all that cash you visitors bring ... "Keep Tennessee green, bring money").

The crowning touch at last year's Eyeball was Ben's (NY9L) QSL cards. We had to have QSLs for people to use at the Eyeball and to rat hole for souvenirs. So the cussing and discussing of the cards started between Colin (WV0P) and myself.

Samples were drawn and redrawn. The sky was full of planes flying samples back and forth from Chattanooga to Omaha. Delta's stock went up two points. Finally, the design was final and Colin tackled the layout and printing. The cards had to be orange because this is Big Orange Country.

Announcements were broadcast on the net, and requests rolled in ... many more than expected ... another trip to the Visitor's Bureau for more brochures.

Early in the year, John (N8JZN) passed through on his way to Florida to secure reservations at the Crystal Airport Motel. We knew then the ball had started to roll. He now holds the record as the earliest check-in in Eyeball history.

At least, we knew that someone was going to show up.

By April things started falling into place ... except for the coon supply.

January Elections

Candidates for the 3905CC offices of President and Vice President need to notify their Area Directors so that their names can be presented to the Board of Directors as soon as possible.

Candiates for the even numbered Area Director posts need only to announce on the net that they are running for the Area Director posts.

Tune into the Nets for more information.

'91 Eyeball takes planing

Local coons apparently heard about our Eyeball stew deal and were acting quite shy.

But the good ole boys on Suck Creek Mountain came through for us. It was a little disconcerting to have the door bell ring at two in the morning and find some stranger in a furry cap with a tail standing on your doorstep holding a still twitching coon in his hand.- But with a lot of cans to fill we decided to never look a gift coon in the eye.

A local company, Gold Bond, Inc., donated 150 pens imprinted with "1991 Century Club Eyeball."

A large tarp and a couple bundles of conduit, which was used for poles, was purchased quickly followed by 600 ft. of polypropylene rope. We now had all the fixings for shelter just in case of rain.

My mother-in-law, Peg, was drafted (actually she volunteered) to make a Century Club flag ... red, white, and blue, of course.

Earlier in the year someone asked about the 3905CC range of awards and that triggered of another major project ... a display board of all certificates offered by the net. JOHN (NJ3V) and DICK (WA2TEW) supplied blank certificates and the related sample applications. In display building mode, I also made a bulletin board with a U.S. map so that we could stick pins to show where everyone's QTH was.

Jim (KD3O), our club historian, sent a nice 3905CC history to give to the newspapers.

July rolled around and we still had so much to do and so little time to get it done. QSL cards arrived from Omaha, good weather was ordered, the menu planned, tables and chairs rented, displays finished and taking up most of the living room, the Coon Stew was at the cannery, the Visitor's Bureau bags were stuffed, penny bags of bingo markers were filled ... and we felt that we were on the downhill side.

But something was missing. At the 1990 Eyeball just a couple club members ran the nets. We needed to saturate the frequency with different portable Tennessees ... and to get more interest in getting new net control operators.

So born was the exclusive 1991 Eyeball Net Controller's Certificate! Back on the phone to my assistant and designer in Omaha. What would be appropriate? It didn't merit a certificate of appreciation, but we decided a certificate of participation would be appropriate, and it arrived just as our first guests rolled into camp.

But most importantly ... it worked! People stood in line waiting to be net control and earn a certificate. Guess who forgot to write his own name on the list to operate? I didn't even get a chance to qualify for my own certificate.

KD3XP, patrolling the cards

The 3905CC trooper of the year is Cliff Woessner, our 40M QSL Bureau Manager. The Centurion asked for a picture with his cruiser. We know how all those XYLs and YLs like to see men in uniforms with police cars.

This is the first time in nine years he wore his standard uniform. Usually he wears a pair of coveralls, looks like a mechanic, but carries a Magnum .357 instead of a wrench.

Cliff is the officer in charge of truck weight and D.O.T. inspections in Butler, Armstrong, and part of Allegheny counties ... I-80 on the North, I-76-PA Turnpike on the South, I-79 on the West and 48 miles wide.

"Needless to say, I don't cover it all in one day!"

He recently completed his 27th year of service with the Pennsylvania State Police and is on call 24 hours a day.

"My normal day is spent patrolling in search of 'heavy haulers', or operating inspection sites checking driver logs (hours of service), condition of equipment, registration, etc.

"Never a dull moment. I've heard every possible excuse as to why people did what they did.

"If you ever hear me say 10-4, it's because I just left the patrol car and haven't had time to readjust. 10-1 through -99 will just about say anything I normally need to say."

Cliff's day starts at 4 a.m. (his wife gets up at 3:30 to cook breakfast) so we'll have excuse him if he checks out early some nights.

It takes four hours every day to keep up with the QSL bureau ... and that's hustling, he adds. Only half the cards come in the required presorted call area order ... all 1s, all 2s, all 3s, etc.

... but the presort makes it a lot easier once they arrive at the bureau.

Cliff keeps cards for three months waiting for envelopes before he returns them to the originating stations. His standard answer to anyone asking if they have envelopes on file is "send more."

Communications

Raccoon Mountain lives on

I had screen printed some souvenir T-shirts for two previous Eyeballs and sold them at cost, but I didn't get do it this year. I have received some requests for them after the Eyeball and will print some for anyone who would like one or more. My cost is about $8 including postage and shipping container for S - XL. If anyone has ample girth requiring XXL, the cost is $9. Cut off date for orders will be Thanksgiving and the orders should be delivered about two weeks later. White is the only color available.

New Net Control Guide

Dave (KE9OI) has recently completed a revised version of the Guide for Net Control Stations. It provides more detail and information, and also reflects some recent procedural changes. While it may still be in approval cycle, it might be a good idea to order "The New Guide" from WA2TEW so that when it is published you will have a copy.

Ocean view

I am unable to tell if my subscription is up ... what's the secret? P.S. I haven't been too active on 40M during the summer because I was at sea aboard the USS Robison DDG-12 and when I was home we were getting nightly thunderstorms here in Colorado. I should add that I'm not in the Navy ... I'm a civilian college teacher who teaches aboard ship while underway.

73 ... Joe ... KQ0S

[All new subscriptions will have a line such as "Exp. Summer '92 iss." to answer this question. We also have standardized in naming the four issues as Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. ED.]

Logging: where's the answer?

I would be very interested in an article or survey on the variety of computer logging programs in use by net members. I use the Hyperlog program, but I'm not entirely satisfied with it. I regularly dump the database to a text file, which then is sorted by state, or filtered for YLs, capitals, DX, etc. It's nice having the sorted lists on hand during check-in to quickly spot needed calls. I do all of the sort programming myself, and I'd be willing to try it with other logging programs, but I'm not sure what is available. Any suggestions?

73 ... Dave ... KD4DI

[I use Lotus 1-2-3 to keep my QSL records ... It's not very sophisticated, and I have to admit I do put off updating my records because it is quite unwieldy. There must be a program out there someplace ... or a system ... maybe we can get N5GAP to write an article on how she is going about working on her 11K award ... it gets harder and harder to keep track every K you move up ED.]

Recent minutes of note

At the September meeting of the Board of Directors actions include:

1. The BOD approved the Certificate of Appreciation (thank you certificate).
2. The use of the term "late check-ins" was changed to "additional check-ins in two places in the Bylaws (5,c; 2,c).
3. The term "late check-in" was defined as anyone that checks in after the first call of the net session has been made.
4. Net Controllers are now allowed to alternate early and late check-ins during the second round of calls.
5. Net Control Stations may have, at their discretion, one additional call per night.

3905CC Eyeball takes some planning

W7KKJ and Kay arrived first just 10 days early. And they helped guard our supplies we were accumulating at the site.

Judy and I took a week's vacation to get all the last minute stuff done. We easily could have taken two weeks ... or maybe a month.

By Wednesday, several more members arrived and the campgrounds started to look a lot like a super Field Day. A 40M CW vertical was up first, quickly followed by the 75M vertical and 40M inverted Vee.

The design engineer for the 40M inverted Vee was WI4Y. It was a very complicated mount consisting of a 55 gallon trash barrel with spacers to keep the support mast centered. Adding water to the barrel provided a surprising amount of stability so the mast wouldn't turn over. Them Alabama engineers certainly make do.

Thursday, opening day, dawned clear and bright. Predictions were for a great, but hot, Eyeball. More and more people arrived, checked in, and disappeared to see the beautiful sites nearby ... Rock City, the Incline, Ruby Falls, the Lost Sea, the Southern Belle Riverboat, the Railroad Museum and those Raccoon Mountain attractions.

We were a little disappointed that Spence didn't jump off the bungee cord jump. The rumor that they were using a 150 ft. bungee cord for a 100 ft. jump may have deterred him from trying it. Or maybe it wasn't that at all, but the $75 fee they charged per jump instead.

We do know that Jim (KF7CT) and Karen (KB7EYA) made the trip to the Jack Daniels Distillery ... probably looking for free samples to take back to Arizona. No such luck on the free samples as the distillery is in a "dry" county.

On Thursday night, a number of Eyeballers wanted to check in to the regularly scheduled net. We ran a coax to the rig in WA4JNN's car and started checking people in.

It was Ronnie's (N4ODI) first night as net control ... a perfect night for a new NCS. There were thunderstorms all over the Southeast, and no one could hear anyone ... most of the Net's strongest relay stations, such as Ralph (N8IFS) and Ricardo (K8MZA) were either with us trying to check in on the mobile rig, or on the road. Ronnie really had a tough time, but she struggled through in fine fashion.

Then the "fun" began. The rain, wind, and lightening hit Raccoon Mountain with a vengeance. That bourbon and Coke I had must have angered the Gods.

Over 20 campers started to learn how to fly a 30 x 40 ft. kite that the tarp decided to become.We had the world's largest hang glider looking to take 20 unwilling passengers (who were trying to hold it down) over the top of Raccoon Mountain. There was absolutely no way we were going to win over the weather, and the tarp crashed. We were soaked, discouraged, and gave up for the night.

Friday morning was a bright, clear August day. The disaster inspection team gathered, photographed, and surveyed damage.

The tarp was ripped and torn along two sides. But we still had "Betsy Ross," our flag maker, on site. Recovery started with a quick trip home to get a sewing machine. Peg got the guys to arrange the tables into one very large sewing table. After a few hours the tarp was nearly good as new except for grommets. Naturally a crew like ours is prepared for anything and KF7CT, equipped for the occasion, happened to have grommets and grommet tools handy. Our shelter, if we could still call it that, went back up.

The flying tarp was the only excitement other than the standard bee stings, pick-ups rolling away without drivers, working portable Tennessee, sunburns, and winning Bingo prizes.

We did have some special awards and prizes to present at the annual meeting on Saturday.

President Judy (WD0GAH) presented the club's prestigious Annual Service Awards to Carol (N5GAP), Ricardo (K8MZA), and George (KB3GN) in recognition of their long time efforts in support of the 3905CC.

VE3HR grabbed the bottle of Geritol as the oldest representative. WV0P got the baby bottle and accessories as the youngest. Pete (K3BM) tried to claim that one, but Pete and Spence did get a coffee cup for their record of having attended every 3905 Eyeball. KE6BV got a new vehicle and camper for traveling the farthest. And WI4Y got the award for being a good all round guy ... we had to give him something so he wouldn't poison us with his cooking ... and it was good. KB7EYA graciously offered to give "Rakky," the mascot, a home until next year. Lots of people brought super bingo prizes.

I would like to personally thank all the people who participated in this year's Eyeball, either on site or on the net.

See you next year.
